

SAN DIEGO – SupplyPro, Inc. announced today the launch of Single Box Dispenser™ II (SBD II), a unique high-density inventory control system for the management of boxed tooling inserts, ideal for the management and control of high-value cutting bits used in the tooling industry.

The SBD II integrates seamlessly into the SupplyPro SmartDrawer® product and its flexible design supports multiple insert package sizes. The high density design provides 128 compartments in a single drawer and literally holds over 1,000 cutting bits.

“Our goal was to manage a large number of products in a very small footprint, with the flexibility to mix and match the SBD II with different sizes and types of drawers in a single unit,” said Mike Reynolds, CTO of SupplyPro. “The SBD II can be ordered with the SupplyScale® to provide the management of both boxed inserts and bulk items in a single cabinet. The addition of a SupplyScale provides the perfect solution for managing recycled carbide,” Reynolds added.

The SBD II is easy to use with an intuitive log-in process, rapid refill technology to reduce stocking time and pick-to-light indicators to guide the user to the correct stocking location. The SBD II has significantly improved serviceability and utilizes state-of-the-art electronic technology. It is designed to be flexible as well as reliable. The SBD II can accommodate a variety of products in addition to cutting tools (such as inserts, mills, reamers, drill bits, and taps), and you can also store tools such as Allen wrenches, locks, keys, and more. The internal cartridge dimension is: 5.10” high x 2.36” wide x .75” deep (129.6mm x 60mm x 19mm).

SupplyPro, Inc.
www.supplypro.com

SupplyPro designs inventory management solutions that bring accountability and control to distributed inventories around the globe. SupplyPro systems control millions of items valued in the billions of dollars annually. The company is a pioneer in scalable web-based solutions including software, hardware, enterprise-class data management and analytics. Working with world-class distributors, SupplyPro delivers 24/7 access to crucial and/or frequently used materials and tools, reducing cost, managing access and control, providing actionable insight, and improving supply chain visibility.

Founded in 1995, SupplyPro is headquartered in San Diego, and its Sales & Training Center is located in Cincinnati, OH.

Press contact for SupplyPro:

Stan Sigman

press@supplypro.com